

KELLY CHOSEN TO LEAD 1934 BASKETBALL TEAM

Coit Elected Captain of Next Year's Swimming Team at Winter Sports Banquet

LETTERS AWARDED

'Varsity and Jayvee Men in Both Sports Receive Insignias; Speeches Given

At a joint dinner given for the 'varsity basketball and swimming teams in the dining hall on Friday, March 17, John Kelly was elected captain of the 1933-34 quintet and L. C. Coit was chosen to lead next year's swimming team. Letters were awarded to 'varsity men, while members of the Jayvee squads in both sports likewise received insignias.

Kelly came to Trinity in the fall of 1932, transferring from Holy Cross. He has completed two seasons on the basketball team and last spring played shortstop on the baseball team, having had previous success in both sports at Hartford High and Kingswood. He is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Coit starred on the swimming team during the past season, setting the college record in the breaststroke. He is also a member of Sigma Nu.

Speeches were given by Coaches Oosting and Clark and the newly elected captains. Bob Daut, leader of this year's record basketball team, and co-captains Mortimer and Adams of the swimming team also gave brief addresses. Other speakers were W. G. Brill, faculty manager of athletics, and William J. Lee of the Hartford Courant.

'Varsity letters for basketball were awarded to Captain Daut, Kelly, Duksa, Liddell, Martens, Kearns, Sampers and Manager Campion. Those who received junior 'varsity insignias were: Hanaghan, Houlihan, Jackson, Warner, Stenz, Dunn, Shenker and Manager Dumont.

In swimming 'varsity awards were made to co-captains Mortimer and Adams, Coit, Mowbray, P. B. Paige, A. Hall, Motten and Manager Hubinger, while junior 'varsity letters went to Angus, Day, Ellsworth, Tucker and Smith.

GLEE CLUB TO SING AT SUNDAY VESPER SERVICE

Will Present Joint Program with Hartford Junior League Early in April

The Trinity Glee Club has completed preliminary plans for a joint choral evensong with the Hartford Junior League in the College chapel, the date of which has been tentatively set for Sunday afternoon, April 2. Mr. Marshall Seeley, director of the Junior League Glee Club, and Mr. Clarence Watters, leader of the Trinity Club, have decided that the program will be sung jointly by the two groups and conducted by both directors. Some of the music is set to eight parts, which neither club could sing alone but which the two can sing together.

The probable program is as follows: "Blessed be the God and Father", by Samuel Wesley, "Glory to the Trinity", by Rachmaninoff, "The One Hundred and Fiftieth Psalm", by Cesar Franck, and "Lead Us, Lord", by Wesley. This group of selections (Continued on page 4.)

SENATE DISCUSSES DATE FOR THE SENIOR BALL

Class Treasurers and Club Managers Make Their Financial Reports

The Senate held its weekly meeting on Monday evening, March 13, in the Cook Hall lounge, at which were present the treasurers of the classes of '34 and '35, and the managers of the Glee Club, and Jesters. Edwin Callaway, as treasurer of the Class of '34, made a report on the financial condition of his class, while Edward Boeger, the treasurer of the Class of '35, did the same. Curtis Junker, manager of the Glee Club, made his report, as did Barclay Shaw, manager of the Jesters.

Edward Paige, Senate President, then spoke on how the various managers and treasurers should keep their books to the best advantage. He stressed neatness and conciseness and, above all, economy. The allotments made to the different organizations at the last meeting were again mentioned.

The Senior Ball was discussed before the meeting adjourned. It was decided that it would be held Friday night, May 5, although it is undetermined whether Alumni Hall or the new Dining Hall will be used. At present negotiations are under way to obtain the very well-known Casa Loma Orchestra for the occasion, but nothing official has as yet been announced. Edward Paige is chairman of the committee in charge of the ball.

TRACK SQUAD ENLISTS PROMISING MATERIAL

Intramurals to Be Held Before Dual Meets—High School Contests to Be Sponsored

Trinity's track squad, now numbering about sixty men, continued to hold its practice sessions in the gymnasium during this past week with special emphasis being placed on conditional drills and coaching in fundamentals. If, as it is hoped, the group will hold its regular practice out-of-doors on the track. It has been announced that contrary to the practice of past years, the intramural meet this year will be held before any of the dual meets rather than at the close of the season. Trinity will continue its practice of sponsoring the meet between the track teams of the high schools of Hartford.

The squad has been divided into several groups, some of the men practicing starts, some high jumps and pole vaulting, some hurdling, and some strengthening themselves for discus throwing or the shot-put. Among the new men or men going in for new events this year who look good in these group practices are, S. Grant, Woodbury, Dickerson, and Liddell. Grant, a member of the track team at Kearny High School, New Jersey, is a sprint man, specializing in the quarter-mile. Grant also ran as anchor man on the crack Kearny relay team. Woodbury gained distinction as a member of the high school track team at Fryeburg, Maine. He is a distance man and was a member of the Trinity cross-country team last fall. Dickerson, a transfer to Trinity, specializes in the (Continued on page 4.)

NOTICE.

Our attention has been called to several laxities at chapel services. We recommend that all undergraduates remain in their places after services until the president and his assistants together with the members of the faculty have withdrawn from the chapel.

We suggest that a respectful quiet be maintained during the prayers, and that the section of seats opposite the organ console be reserved for the choir.

Failure to comply with these suggestions will result in the loss of the offending person's credits for that service!

WEDNESDAY CHAPEL TALK GIVEN BY DR. BARSTOW

President of Hartford Seminary Speaks of Purpose as Essential Today

TECHNOCRACY REPROVED

Centers Hope of World Upon Solution of Problems by Rising Generation

At the morning chapel service last Wednesday, Dr. Robbins Barstow gave an address on the necessity of purpose for the control of power. Dr. Barstow is president of the Hartford Theological Seminary. He has distinguished himself, during the few years he has been in Hartford, by his excellent grasp of social problems; and his talk on Wednesday included reasons for the apparent failure of Technocracy, and advice concerning the use of the great amount of cosmic energy at the disposal of us who live in the twentieth century.

The speaker first told of certain experiences of a friend of his in China. The Yangtze River, running 3,200 miles from the Himalayas through Central China to Shanghai, had flooded its banks in a certain region to the extent of several miles. It was apparent, by the damage done and the means taken to prevent further devastation, that such power was totally uncontrollable. It had no purpose; its course was followed at random. As Saadi, the great thirteenth century Persian poet, said, "Purpose without power is emptiness and deception; power without purpose is vanity and fatuity." On the other hand, we see how such power may be given a purpose—as at the Hoover Dam in the Colorado River. Such control yields potentiality.

This analogy may also explain the relationships which men make between purpose and power. Too often we find the familiar passage in St. Mark 8: 16 unheeded: "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" History gives us good examples. Samson, a giant in physical strength, was a pigmy in character. Allowing himself to be seduced by a woman, he betrayed his country and made himself the laughing stock of the world. Then, of course, there are also Caesar, Alexander, Anthony, and others; but fortunately we have the examples of such men as Joshua, Savonarola, Lincoln, and Bishop Brent, who maintained just the opposite attitude.

President Barstow continued with an admission that he had very great respect and enthusiasm towards Technocracy when it was first explained (Continued on page 4.)

PROFESSOR BISSENETTE HOLDS BIOLOGY SEMINAR

Claims Philosophical Side of Biology is Important to Arts Men

In the first of a series of lectures attempting to show that the history of biology is an important factor for the understanding of that subject, Professor Bissonnette spoke to a group of undergraduates and faculty members in the Cook Hall lounge, Monday night, March 20.

He read from a biological treatise by Professor Singer of the University College of London, digressing from time to time to explain the significance of a passage. Commenting on the work he had chosen to read, Dr. Bissonnette praised its simple style designed for laymen as well as scientists, and stated that it lends to the general culture of the men taking arts courses in that they procure a vision of the philosophical side of biology which would ordinarily remain unknown to them.

The reading began with a history of Hippocrates, and went on to explain how the lack of instruments brought forth a keen sense of observation in the scientists of ancient times. The Greeks, discoverers of many principles in medicine, believed that the body consisted of four elements: blood, yellow bile, black bile, and phlegm. From this belief, the speaker said, have come many of our modern terms, such as sanguine, temperament, melancholy, and complexion.

RECORD NUMBER ATTENDS TRINITY ALUMNI DINNER

Basketball Team Present as Guests of Honor—Austin Mystifies

The Hartford Alumni Association of Trinity College met Friday evening, March 17, at the University Club on Lewis Street. Stanley D. Pinney of Wethersfield, president of the local group, presided. The meeting progressed with a banquet, informal addresses, and entertainment.

A record attendance of one hundred members was at the meeting, together with some of the faculty and the basketball team. Dr. Ogilby, Mr. Northey Jones of New York City, President of the Alumni Association, and Mr. Brill, Secretary of the Alumni, were present. Dr. Ogilby congratulated the Alumni on the interest in the gathering indicated by the large number of them present and spoke at greater length on the college affairs of this year. Mr. Clark and Mr. Jessee were introduced and complimented on their coaching of the swimming and football teams. The basketball team, as guests of the Alumni after a highly successful season, received due applause when introduced. A half hour of interesting entertainment was furnished by Mr. Austin of the Fine Arts department with the performance of thaumaturgical feats. What provided the greatest excitement of the evening was a boxing bout between two of the waiters at the dinner. Their conflict was so unexpected that many of those present were sure that they were witnessing an actual brawl. It was a convincing imitation. The remainder of the evening passed with food and music.

SIX LETTERMEN REPORT FOR BASEBALL DRILLS

Coach Wright Seeks Infielders and Catchers to Bolster Team for Hard Schedule

BOCKWINKEL CAPTAIN

Williams, Amherst, Wesleyan and Mass. State Among Opponents

With only six lettermen remaining from last year's lineup, and with the first baseball game of the year barely two weeks after the Easter vacation, Coach Wright is having his hands full trying to mould a winning unit. This year offers unusual opportunities to the new men who show adeptness for the national game. The lettermen returning are Kelly, at shortstop, Captain Bockwinkel, at first base, Bell, at right field, Armstrong, at center field, Carey, at left field, and Henebry, pitcher. This leaves four gaps which must be filled before the first game with Clark at Worcester on April 29.

Among the promising pitchers are Houlihan and Ferris, reserves from last year, and Hall, a freshman who showed up well at Kent. The other half of the battery is considerably weaker. Geare, a freshman, or Amport, a promising sophomore, will probably fill the post behind the bat. Possibly Bell may be brought in from the outfield to serve here. The infield is also weak, at present with second and third sackers missing. If these two positions can be well filled, a fairly good season ought to be expected. Among the men trying out for these places are Wheeler, a transfer; Kearns, a transfer; Marquet, reserve of last year; and Sinclair, a freshman. Because of the large number of candidates and the fact that there are so many places to fill before the season starts, it is probable that the squad will be cut sooner than usual in order to give Coach Wright a chance to concentrate on those men that look most promising.

For several years Trinity has had a good baseball team. Last year the nine won six out of twelve games played, beating Wesleyan twice and defeating Williams in its one game.

DELTA PHI ENTERTAINS WITH SUNDAY SOCIAL

Many Faculty Members Attend Tea Given at Chapter House

On Sunday afternoon, March 19, the Sigma Chapter of the Delta Phi Fraternity gave a Tea at the Chapter House. Faculty members and their wives, alumni of the fraternity and friends of the undergraduate members were among the many guests who passed an enjoyable time between the hours of three and five. Mrs. R. M. Adams and Mrs. R. W. Canfield poured. When the social broke up the majority of those present closed out the afternoon by attending the Vesper Service in the College Chapel.

The guests who attended the Tea included Mrs. R. B. Ogilby, Professor and Mrs. F. C. Babbitt, Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Swan, Professor and Mrs. Odell Shepard, Professor and Mrs. H. M. Dadourian, Professor and Mrs. E. L. Troxell, Professor and Mrs. V. K. (Continued on page 4.)

INTRAMURAL COMPETITION?

A great majority of the American colleges and universities now include intramural contests on their athletic programs and here at Trinity flourishes what is perhaps one of the most comprehensive intraschool competitive systems that could be offered to any student body. But there seems to be the usual fly in the ointment. In all sports but basketball the members of our 'varsity teams are eligible for play!

Intramural games were introduced and devised in the main for the express purpose of affording sufficient athletic outlets to two classes of men. There are those who are not quite good enough to "make" the limited squads of the first teams in inter-collegiate contests, and those who show a natural healthy desire to enjoy themselves in some sport or other. Organized intramural competition on a large scale affords to nearly every one who desires it the chance to take part in some activity. However, when 'varsity men who are finely trained by the rigors of a recent campaign are allowed to vie on even terms with all the other men in the college, the intramural program is forthwith robbed of a great part of the interest due it. The students do not deem it worth their while to enter the lists, for they can practically ascertain even before the race which men will place where on the strength of their performances in intercollegiate contests.

The intramural program here at Trinity is thus defeating its own end. Instead of establishing sports for all we are in reality reverting to athletics for the few men who are acknowledged experts in their particular fields. Unless the active members of our 'varsity squads are barred from all strictly intramural contests our system will die a premature and unfortunate death due to a very reasonable lack of interest on the part of most of the men on the campus.

INTERFRATERNITY ACCORD

The Tripod wishes to congratulate the fraternities on the campus for their recent revival of the long defunct Interfraternity Council. This latest attempt on the part of the Greek letter societies to mold a coöperative union of policies relative to both their own interests and those of the college can be greeted only with the utmost approval. Almost every college of any note whatsoever has instituted such a council and it is certainly time that we followed in their footsteps. Trinity as a small college has only seven national secret organizations. But it has a unique distinction in that all seven of these chapters represent fraternal bodies whose traditions and attainments are representative of the cream of the fraternity groups in the country. As such they naturally form an integral part of the college life both through their alumni and undergraduate members and anything they may undertake constructively may assuredly be for the betterment of the college itself. Therefore, let us fereverently hope that this new council will really accomplish the many needed reforms it has avowedlyset its shoulder to.

BOOK REVIEW

POINT COUNTER POINT, by Aldous Huxley. New York, The Modern Library, 1930.

The writer has managed to tangle and untangle a novel which is exhausting in its complexity of plot and purpose. "Point Counter Point" is a rather surly satire on the conduct of certain of the wealthy English middle class, their casual philandering and general loose living. It resembles other English novels, being a story in which most of the innumerable characters are somehow akin, and regard one another with a mild modern indifference. The atmosphere of the book is stuffy. Thick drawing-room conversations and long, pedantic arguments on philosophy tend, at times, to make the reading tedious.

The characters are excellently drawn. An intricate story woven about each person brings out his nature with unusual completeness and detail. It is only through such thoroughness in distinguishing the characters that the reader can be given a unified impression of them. This is especially true when there are so many to become acquainted with. Three sordid deaths, one, the murder of a progressive political leader, another, the slow dying of a small child, and another, the dramatic suicide of the politician's murderer, limit our acquaintance in some degree.

"Point Counter Point" bears a distinct mark of intellectualism, of radicalism, and of confusion. It is skillfully written; the fact that the author is at all able to gather his threads at the end is to his credit, for they are terribly scattered.—J. M.

THE HUMAN MIND, by Karl A. Menninger. New York and London, A. A. Knopf, 1930.

This is a simple and convincing explanation of modern psychiatry. Dr. Menninger has tried to make this young science a feasible thing to the layman, and thereby to increase his confidence in its possibilities as a practice. The author abandons the rather abstruse technical style in which the subject is usually handled, and employs a narrative. Case histories constitute about two-thirds of the book. Without doubt its main appeal lies here, for these strange records of the unsound not only furnish the reader positive, existing facts to consider, but they are, in themselves, fascinating to read. The book should be of real worth to anyone who has an interest and curiosity in human behavior.—J. M.

CAMPUS COMMENT

Mother Nature figured in campus activities quite ably last week by presenting us with colder weather and a snowstorm—she must have noticed that the ill-fated skating rink had once more been put away for the summer. Then, too, she must have forgotten something for student after student, believing this, took advantage of a candy-like present, suffering untold hardships as a result.

We were pleased to see that the Medusa is asserting its much-deserved authority in posting a notice concerning behavior in chapel, though the red ink seemed to take away much of its dignity. It's too bad that our services should be marred by those unbelievers who take part in the ritual. That is, we suppose, their privilege in a free country, but it is disheartening to say the creed while watching a neighbor sitting oblivious to everything about him, doing his German.

The alumni dinner last Friday night was a most successful affair and from all reports the staged combat proved to be the most outstanding part of the evening's entertainment. To have missed the sight of our Dean rushing into battle to save a public spirited Professor, is our biggest disappointment of the week.

We are amused by seeing how carefully the workmen have sought to protect the dying tree near the Bishop by keeping away from it the dirt used in filling in the campus; by listening to forbidden radios in many rooms in the sections; by imagining how much better the Bishop would look if the dirt foundation beneath his stone pedestal were wider; by the story of the new statue of Lafayette downtown; and by the disappearance of all talk about the disappearance of the Lemon Squeezer. And, by the way, what has become of the Lemon Squeezer?

At Coe College all students who have been sent home because of poor marks are allowed to attend the "Flunkers' Frolic."

WESTMINSTER WINS MEET HELD IN TRINITY POOL

Victors Capture Connecticut Prep School Championship Lynch Features

On Saturday, March 18, the first annual Connecticut Preparatory School swimming championships were held in the Trowbridge Memorial Pool under the auspices of the Trinity College Athletic Department. Westminster School carried off the team honors by compiling a total of 38 points. Collegiate Prep of New Haven gave the new titleholders a close run by scoring 33 points to take the runner-up position. Canterbury with 23 tallies, and Suffield with 12, placed third and fourth, respectively. At a meeting of the coaches after the races it was definitely decided to make this meet an annual fixture with Trinity College the official sponsor.

Westminster, which captured five of the eight events on the program, was led by Lynch and Rossiter. Lynch proved the individual star of the meet by taking firsts in the 200-yard free style and the fancy dive. Rossiter won the 100-yard free style and was anchor man on the winning medley relay team. Other individual champions crowned were Russell of Suffield in the 50-yard free style, Kent of Westminster in the 100-yard backstroke and McGugan of Collegiate in the 100-yard breaststroke. The Canterbury quartet of Paddock, Skelly, Hammond and O'Connor won the 200-yard relay event, and Westminster scored in the medley relay with Kent and Keyes teaming up with Rossiter.

MEMBERS OF A. T. K. ATTEND COMMUNION

The annual Corporate Communion of Alpha Tau Kappa in memory of Dorance Heath Coles, a member of the class of 1930 who died in his Senior year, was held in the Crypt Chapel at 7.15 o'clock on March 13. Flowers on the altar given by the Coles family and by President Ogilby added to the inherent beauty of the Crypt Chapel. The service was attended by relatives and friends of Dorance Coles, as well as by the undergraduate members of his fraternity. After the service the fraternity were the guests of President Ogilby at breakfast in the Dining Hall.

WEDNESDAY CHAPEL NOTICE.

Instead of the usual mid-week service on Wednesday morning, March 22, Mr. Watters has arranged for a program of instrumental music which will be played by undergraduates at that time. The program will not be announced beforehand, but, among other numbers, John Martens will play a violin solo, and there will be a violin duet played by Charles and William Kirby. This musical service will take the place of the address of Dr. Visser t'Hooft from Holland, who is again unable to keep an appointment to speak here.

A. CACASE ADDRESSES MEN OF ITALIAN CLUB

Il Circolo Dante Members Hear Talk on Eventful Life of Garibaldi

At a meeting of the Italian Club, Il Circolo Dante, held at the home of d'Ambrosia Sunday night, March 19, Anthony Cacase gave a talk on the life of Garibaldi, famous Italian patriot. Sixteen members were present and refreshments were served after the address.

Garibaldi's greatest ambition, Cacase said, was to unite Italy, which was at that time divided into several kingdoms and provinces. His first opportunity to help this cause came when inhabitants of Sicily rebelled against their king. By his magnetic personality he gathered a small band of patriots to his side, and helped the revolution to a successful conclusion. This was the beginning of an adventurous career in which Garibaldi and his faithful band fought for the cause of liberty and justice, traveling even to South America to join a revolution there. His life was one of thrills and narrow escapes. At one time he was hunted with a price on his head, and at another time he was acclaimed as the savior of his country. After years of conflict Italy was united, and Garibaldi was so influential in the struggle that many wanted him to make himself dictator. But he remained faithful to his republican principles and died a true Italian patriot.

W. F. SCOTT ELECTED FRESHMAN CLASS HEAD

J. Zierdt Chosen Vice-President with J. R. Williams as Secretary-Treasurer

At a meeting held recently in the English Room, the Freshmen elected three new men as class officers for the Trinity Term. W. Fraser Scott succeeded Bailey Hall as President. John Zierdt was elected Vice-President and Jack R. Williams took over the duties of Secretary and Treasurer. Only those men who had paid their dues in full were allowed to vote although the other three classes in college allow all men present to vote, but only those who have paid up to hold or run for office. Otherwise no new business was taken up.

Scott is a member of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity. He was on the rifle team and earned his class numerals playing on the line for the yearling football eleven. At present he is trying out for a place on the baseball squad. Zierdt is a member of the Sigma Nu Fraternity. He made a fine scholastic and athletic record at the Valley Forge Military Academy before entering Trinity. Williams is also a member of the Sigma Nu Fraternity. He was one of the divers on the Junior 'Varsity swimming team and has a high ranking in studies in his class.

ATHENAEUM HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The regular weekly meeting of the Athenaeum Society, held on March 13, was opened by President Senf with the reading of a letter from the Wesleyan Debaters proposing a joint debate over the radio in the latter part of April. The election of a new secretary was then called, Mr. Dumont being voted the office. Following this, the four recently elected members of the society, Messrs. Gane, W. Kirby, Rulnick and Dumont, were formally initiated by President Senf.

A short address was given by Mr. Senf on "What A College Man's Religion Lacks", stressing the importance of recognizing "Spirit" as the dominant factor in the religious life of the undergraduate, and decrying the position of the agnostics and lukewarm adherents to a religious faith.

The meeting concluded with an informal discussion upon such allied topics as the authenticity of the Bible, the definition of "Spirit", "Pantheism", the "Trinity", and the "Golden Rule."

don't want one that's tasteless.
You want one that lets you you don't want one that's bitey.Chesterfields are milder . . .

to the public. He realized that the world needed to take a drastic step in readjustment to the machine age.
He soon found, however, that Technocracy was nothing more than a skyrocket which merely recognized the existence of our great power and resources, but which,
on the other hand, had no answer to the questions which power raised. It could not help us to acclimate ourselves to this changing era.Finally, the speaker pointed out that the ultimate source of vision is the inner man. Back of the mind which directs the hand is the heart which controls the mind. Religion is merely the attitude of people towards life; it is the permeative atmosphere in which a man lives, and which he sheds around him to those with whom he comes in contact. The rising generation must make this atmosphere so full of peace and insight that it will demonstrate to a waiting world the solution of the complexities of troubled times. It must give our wealth of power a purpose, for the better fulfillment of God's plan.TRACK PROSPECTS.

tramural meet on the last week-end of April, expects to profit by looking over and testing his material before the first meet with Union on May 6.
The schools expected to participate in the Greater Hartford meet are:
Bulkeley, H. P. H. S., Weaver, East, and West Hartford high schools. The Trinity Track Association also hopes to sponsor the Central Connecticut will be a part of the weekly vesper service.In all probability the Glee Club will present a concert and dance at the College sometime in May, as the joint evensong with the Junior League will conclude the schedule of outside programs for the current season. As yet plans for this final concert are indefinite, but the success of a similar idea last spring indicates that a program of this sort would be well received.BIOLOGY SEMINAR.

Outstanding in the history of biology was Aristotle, greatest philosopher and physician of his time.
Dr. Bissonnette continued his reading by outlining the main events in the life of this famous pupil of Plato, claiming that his greatest work was
"The History of Animals."BASEBALL PROSPECTS.

It lost to Amherst only after a ten inning struggle. Two seasons ago the team set up a college record of nine wins out of eleven starts. The colleges to be faced this year all boast strong teams. Williams, Massachusetts State, Amherst, Connecticut
State, and Worcester Tech shape up well in the pre-season forecasts; and if Coach Wright can patch up the Blue and Gold infield, there ought to be some interesting battles on the diamond this coming season.DELTA PHI TEA.
